Intersound Restructures Contemporary Christian Division

Layoffs in A&R, marketing, promotion announced

On the eve of its three year anniversary of involvement in the contemporary Christian music business, Atlanta-based Intersound gave notice to a handful of employees in its Christian music division of its intent to restructure the division, CCM Update learned last week.

Affected by the decision were Marketing Director Tom Ramsey, A&R Director Philip White, and Angie Humphries, manager of national promotions. Personnel in telemarketing and two out of six regional sales representatives were also cut, according to Keith Kirkwood, the division's general manager, who will continue in his position with the company. Ramsey, who had left the office August 5 for vacation, could not be reached for comment.

The move was made, according to Intersound corporate Vice President Michael Olsen, "...to make the division leaner, tighter, and to improve profitability," explaining the need to "...refocus A&R priorities, shifting more of our focus to the black gospel area, which is where we see our priority in the gospel field currently."

Though Olsen would not confirm rumors that the move was the first step in shutting down the contemporary Christian side of the company, he stressed that, "We don't anticipate any signings in the contemporary Christian market at this time, although we won't close the door on future possibilities." Olsen maintained that "The company is committed to the records we have made," citing current releases by Paul Smith and Craig Duncan, and forthcoming releases by Maia Amada and Terri Lynn, as examples of product the company intends to work in the CBA market. Olsen said other members of Intersound's marketing team such as former A&M/Word liaison Dick Bozzi could be called upon for marketing support during this time, and that independent radio promoter Jacque Gibb would be retained to work the existing projects.

Though Olsen would make no comment as to the financial reasons which precipitated the decision, industry insiders speculated 'off the record' last week that Intersound, which has been very successful in marketing and re-packaging concept-driven product in the general market, may not have been prepared to commit the amount of capital required to successfully develop

Petra Re-signs Long Term Deal with Word

Grammy and Dove Award-winning Christian rock band Petra has just resigned an exclusive recording contract with Word Records.

"The long term agreement provides a 1995 record release from Petra and the possibility of a future praise album among other records in the deal," said Lynn Keesecker, vice president/general manager for Word Records. "Our vision for Petra's future is to achieve unprecedented visibility and support of Christian rock's original premiere band."

Petra founder and lead guitarist Bob Hartman said, "Petra is very happy to be continuing our relationship with Word Records. Over the last few years, people throughout the company have expressed their belief in our ministry, both verbally and through their hard work on our behalf. We are excited about continuing into the future together." Roland Lundy, Word Records and Music president, commented, "Word's sales of Petra product account for more than two million units. Their renewed record commitment will enable Word to strengthen and support Petra's music ministry in the future."

Petra began their recording career at Myrrh/Word over 20 years ago with their first two albums before signing with Star Song. In 1989, they re-signed with DaySpring/Word (which recently became simply Word Records) and have released four records and four video packages including Petra Praise, Beyond Belief, Unseen Power, and 1993's Wake Up Call as well as a Spanish version of Petra Praise. ■

Erratum

In last week's "Out and About," we reported that the Sandi Patty/Peabo Bryson duet from her upcoming album was produced by Phil Ramone. The duet was in fact produced by Greg Nelson, while Ramone produced a Burt Bacharach-penned tune for the project.

Sandi Patty/World Vision Encourage Aid to Rwanda

World Vision, an international Christian relief and development agency, is doubling its financial commitment to assist the nation's refugees and displaced people as well as those displaced in Uganda, Tanzania, Zaire, and Burundi. Sandi Patty, national spokesperson for World Vision, explained, "Rwanda is definitely in a life or death crisis right now. One of the things that World Vision is doing is to offer a $10 million donation through their sponsors."

The California-based agency will implement a general relief plan in two stages. "The first thing World Vision will do is determine the feasibility of a proposed $3.15 million, three month effort to aid refugees," stated Patty. "That's a focused, targeted thing that we need to do. When [refugees] are on the road, they have left their stuff at home, so this project will provide food, clean water, medical supplies, plastic sheeting, mattresses, cooking equipment—things to get them through this immediate crisis."

"The second tier of the operation is designed to draw refugees back into Rwanda," explained Patty, who visited World Vision projects in Ethiopia in June. "If they can go back to their homeland, they've got shelter and land that can hopefully be cultivated with some on-going intervention. The overall goal for World Vision is the creation of secure environments in Rwanda for the refugees to return home."

In addition to financial support World Vision will offer leadership and counsel as a part of a 12 member assessment team that will advise the United Nations Department of Humanitarian Affairs and UN Undersecretary General Peter Hansen on the best course of action for relief. "This is too much for one organization to take on," Patty commented, "but if we can pull our efforts under the umbrella of the UN, there's a forum to discuss what can be done."

In her role as national spokesperson for the agency, Patty is committed to sharing her experience in Africa. She has been interviewed by the USA Radio Network and hopes to meet with other media organizations in the near future. "One of the first things that I want to do is to say first-hand to people, 'You know what? I was there, and I held a baby in my arms that at three years old weighed less than my children when they were born. It is a reality.'"

"The second thing that I want to encourage people to do is to sponsor a child. Right now there may be children that can be sponsored in Rwanda, a very specific way for people to say 'Here's something I can do for the community.' Sponsorship makes such a difference."

In light of the dire circumstances facing Rwanda, Patty added, "One time, large donations are appreciated and accepted. They are very much needed. The people at World Vision can [inform the public] more specifically how they can become involved at 800/423-4200. [Relief] is something that has to be done now. It has to be done right away."

"Having been to Ethiopia, when I see the pictures of Rwanda on TV—I don't know why we are so skeptical but I too would look at those pictures and think that it can't be that bad—it is horrible. Everyone is really an innocent victim and they truly need help. We can give them help. That is the good news in all of it—that there is hope for some of these people."

ALBUM REVIEWS

Top Ten

Kathy Troccoli Kathy Troccoli Reunion

KT has already topped the CCM AC chart with "My Life is in Your Hands," while "Tell Me Where It Hurts" is moving up Billboard's AC and Hot 100 charts. The rest of the disc alternates between frisky dance numbers like "Just You" and booming, Mariah Carey/Celine Dion-influenced ballads such as "If I'm Not in Love..." There's not a great depth of gospel material, but there is plenty of positive pop to recommend to radio and retail.

On the Chart

Kim Hill So Far So Good Reunion

Hill's crossover to mainstream country has been successfully launched with the hit single and video "Janie's Gone Fishin'." She slides into the genre with ease, her sultry voice putting across the clever wordplay; first-class picking and great production by Wayne Kirkpatrick also distinguish the album. Best of all, Hill's female characters are mostly role-models, not victims (and she remembers her gospel audience with "When We're Home").

The Kry You Freedom

This San Diego-based trio burst out of the gate with three Top Five singles off its debut, I'll Find You There and has already notched a #2 hit with "You're All I Need," the first single from this fine project. The group's engaging mixture of crisp vocals, catchy lyrics, pop hooks and alternative rock sensibilities suggest there's many more hits to come.

David Robertson Soul Embrace Star Song

David is one of the latest Imperials alumni to launch a solo career, and the schoolin' he received there has paid off. He has good songwriting instincts and delivers those tunes in a tender/tough fashion, without overdoing it (in blustery, Bolton-esque fashion). Though the breezy, R&B-based pop is occasionally a bit too predictable, Robertson compares favorably to like-styled vocalists such as Steve Camp and Bryan Duncan.

Stonehill The Lazarus Heart Street Level

This release marks Stonehill's debut as Street Level artist and label prez. Whether leaning toward rock, surveying jazzy pop or performing one of his trademark acoustic ballads, Randy has never sounded more comfortable. Gary Chapman and Christine Denté are among those who provide backing vocals, while Michael W. Smith's vocal contribution to

"In Jesus Name" should guarantee a hit. Rick Elias and Dave Perkins offer songwriting assists but the focus remains on Stonehill's confident voice and challenging lyrics.

Also Received

King James King James Star Song

Ex-Whitecross fretman Rex Carroll pulls off an impressive debut, in collaboration with vocalist Jimi Bennett and former Stryper members Tim Gaines & Robert Sweet. Bennett and Carroll are a potent songwriting team, composing several complex arrangements and intricate hooks, while Gaines and Sweet prove equal to the musical challenge. Except for a few spots where Bennett can't seem to overcome the sheer force of the tunes, he and Carroll have laid a solid foundation on which to build.

Carlton Pearson and the Higher Dimensions Choir Live Warner Alliance

For those who like a little added "oomph" to their worship, Pastor Pearson (of Tulsa's Higher Dimensions Evangelistic Center) and his choir provide as much excitement and energy as you could likely pack onto a 60-minute disc. With songs provided by the likes of Thomas Whitfield, John P. Kee & Higher Dimensions Minister of Music Alvin Frug, solos by Frug, Pearson & Kee and an impressive band, this session moves beyond a simple worship service to the category of an event.

Private Boyz Check da Flava N° Soul

This is a good place to start if your customer/listener is looking for something a little harder than DC Talk, but isn't ready for the full-on attitude of Gospel Gangstas or T Bone. The P-Boyz borrow hooky samples, swing on the jazzy tip like Digable Planets and lay down strong beats over which they merge evangelical and social topics. All five Boyz "got tha mic skillz" as rappers and singers, making for a very diverse and entertaining debut.

Sierra Sierra Star Song

This may not be the most fortuitous time to launch a female harmony group, what with Point of Grace burning up the charts and Ashton, Becker & Denté just around the corner. Sierra's smooth sound will inevitably draw comparisons to Point of Grace, but its frequent integration of country and R&B influences sets it apart from the aforementioned ladies. Bonus points for covering Leslie Phillips' lovely worship ballad, "By My Spirit."

* Under Midnight Void WAL

Frankie and dB Allen return with a continuation of their apocalyptic concept; this time, it's based on the supposed utopia that will occur when the "information superhighway" is fully constructed. But in their vision, this information exists mainly to manipulate the masses. The industro/dance music serves the bleak lyrics, which ask in the end "Is there a God for someone like me?"—putting the onus on believers to convince Generation X'ers there is.

Various Artists

Ambience/Soundtracks for Christian Living—Guitar, Cello, Saxophone, Piano Brentwood

These four titles mix contemporary worship songs with traditional hymns, with the songs arranged mostly in a lite jazz fashion with classical overtones. The soloists are very talented, with cellist Robin Thompson-Clarke doing an especially lovely job. However, since the music is designed to be unobtrusive, the result is often songs which are not distinctive when listened to on their own and which disappear totally when used as background music.

World Wide Message Tribe Dance Planet N Soul

A year after its U.S. debut, the Manchester, England-based Tribe hits our shores again with an album whose title alludes to a dance music invasion; these grooves are infectious enough to suggest that Great Britain's Zarc Porter, Mark Pennells, Andy "Heavyfoot" Hawthorne and Sani (their female vocalist from Swaziland) may indeed spark a revolution. Their club-tested ministry has given them unprecedented access to schools across the U.K.; the full-on gospel lyrics offer the listener some meat with the beat.

SINGLE REVIEWS

Top Five

"King of the Jungle" Steven Curtis Chapman Sparrow

Can you say "K-I-N-G of the J-U-N-G-L-E" three times fast? You will be able to soon, as will all of your listeners. From the opening jungle drums to the catchy bridge outlined above, this is another shining example of why Steven has owned Christian radio for the past several years. Chalk up the second #1 from Heaven in the Real World. AC/CHR

"Fearless Heart" East to West Benson

Neil and Jay turn in a nice power ballad here... arguably their best shot at a top five single to-date. Three different mixes are provided in an effort to make the tune palatable for all three formats. Look for good cross-format airplay, with biggest peaks in the AC arena. AC/CHR/INSP

"House of Love" Brian Goodell Essential

Looking for something with a hefty amount of funk and groove to spare? Let your search end here then. Goodell's fresh vocal style and a track loaded with plenty of attitude make this a tasty treat for CHR radio. Pay particular attention to the Club Mix version. CHR

"Children of the World" Amy Grant Myrrh

Lest there be any confusion, this is the official Christian radio single from House of Love, Amy's much-anticipated new album. (Last issue we reviewed Amy's mainstream single, "Lucky One," released through A&M Records.) Grant's performance of the song during the 1994 Dove Awards telecast left little doubt of its future fortunes at radio.

The only question remaining is how long it will take it to top the charts. AC/CHR/INSP

"Can't Stop Thinking About You" The Kry Freedom Records

Look at the horizon. That star rising is this relatively new San-Diego-based three-piece. A distinctive lead vocal and guitar hook that makes you wish you played it combine to make this a certain top five pick for CHR. ACs who are looking for something up-beat but not overly aggressive may want to give it a listen as well. This is feel-good music... and a good choice for keeping things interesting in the waning days of summer. CHR/AC

"Be Still" Newsboys Star Song

The debut release from this popular five-some may strike some as surprisingly tame... especially considering that this new project, Going Public, was produced by Steve Taylor. CHR stations—the group's leading source of radio support historically—may be a bit disappointed by the choice, but any losses in that arena will be off-set by a solid level of exposure at AC outlets. The fact that they'll be getting significant exposure opening for Steven Curtis Chapman this fall won't hurt their acceptance either. Top five peaks at CHR are still likely, with impressive AC peaks as well. AC/CHR/INSP

"In Their Eyes" Brian Goodell Essential

Goodell turns the groove machine down a notch from his CHR release—but still maintains enough attitude to keep things interesting—in this, the AC selection from his Essential debut. The vocal is definitely distinctive and will perk up some ears, though the song lacks the major hooks necessary to make it a contender for top five numbers. This is a guy we could all get used to hearing from in the future. AC

"Lay Down Your Gods" The Kry Freedom Records

A heavy guitar track opens the number but then gives way to the smooth vocal harmonies that are a characteristic of this three-piece. Though it's a down-tempo selection, it moves into the chorus pretty quickly and boasts some memorable guitar lines. Good choice for rock radio. ROCK

"For the Cause of Christ" Babbie Mason Word

Babbie's familiar voice leads us easily through this song of commitment and service toward the building of the Kingdom. The free-flowing track and lush production values compliments of producer Cheryl Rogers make it a pleasurable listening experience. Look for top 10 peaks in the Inspirational arena, and a good showing at AC radio as well. INSP/AC

"Praying Man" Petra Word

Petra walks us through some biblical examples of God working through those who sought His face in prayer in the latest offering from Wake Up Call. John Schlitt's lead vocal is supported by stacks of bgv's and layers of guitars and drums, and the John Lawry-penned song is loaded with the hooks we've come to expect from Petra. CHR

"Arizona Highway" Phillip Sandifer Urgent

Sandifer's familiar voice and acoustic stylings invite you along for a pleasurable sonic ride down an Arizona Highway. Along the way we celebrate life in our Saviour. This is a nice feel-good tune and Phillip always seems to find a host of old friends to give him a solid amount of airplay. Look for a run into top 20 territory. The album version is a bit lengthy, so check out the fade, which gets you out around 5:00. AC/INSP

"Biggest Part of Me" Take 6 Warner Alliance

Take 6, clad in black and white, are turned loose in a surreal world of static and floating black and white objects and images in this imaginative clip. The video stays in constant motion, with group members and elements of the set moving incessantly from left to right. There's so much to look at you'll just have to see it time and time again!
